Putting the Pieces Together

To the graduating Class of 2009, our theme, "Putting the Pieces Together," reflects our life ahead of us once high school is long over. The pieces that are going to make up our puzzles are the memories and special moments of our lives that we are going to create. High school and the other milestones we have reached are only a few pieces of the puzzle. Hopefully, we all will end up with a finished puzzle that took millions of pieces to create. Those pieces are going to be the rest of our lives; make them the best, make them worth while, make them yours, make them forever.

Retiring Faculty
Mrs. Josette Kaplan

The Senior Class of 2009 would like to Congratulate Mrs. Josette Kaplan on her retirement. Mrs. Kaplan dedicated thirty-five years of her career to teaching at Bellingham High School. Mrs. Kaplan was a beloved Language teacher, Department Head, and National Honor Society Advisor. Her students are extremely happy for her, but are sad to see her go. Many who know Mrs. Kaplan associate Bellingham High with her; her presence in the classroom was truly unparalleled. She was an incredibly caring and devoted teacher. Mrs. Kaplan's work with the National Honor Society was nothing short of extraordinary; she was a mentor and friend to countless students over the years. The National Honors Society was truly blessed to have her as their advisor, and her officers and students loved her dearly. Mrs. Kaplan's wisdom, kind heart, and devotion to her students will be greatly missed. We wish her the best of luck as she moves into the next phase of her life.

Through the past four years, the teachers have been like a second family. Some we liked, some we didn't. But through it all they have done their best. They saw us everyday, asked us how our day was going, and even stopped to notice that we had done something good. The Class of 2009 would like to thank each and every one of you for not only preparing us for the future, but just being who you are and for caring. We will miss you greatly. With sincere thanks, CLASS OF 2009

The 2008 football season was a very trying time for the program. The team finished with a record of 0-11. The nine seniors who stuck out through this ordeal are to be commended. The good news from the season is the fact that many underclassmen were forced into the action and received invaluable experience. The coaching staff was very proud of the effort and dedication shown by the whole team during the season and especially proud of Adam Taylor, Pat Maloney, Lewis Howe, Anthony Corrado, Zack Brennik, Mike Paniss, Eric Thibedeau, Craig Fortier, and Greg Pendillard for the way they handled such a difficult situation.

Coach McDonough and Coach McNamara

Both coach McNamara and coach McDonough are very proud of the girls and what they have accomplished this season. The girls qualified for State Competition, ending their season with a league record of 0-7. According to coach McNamara, the team is very competitive and the girls had many solid performances. The meets that they lost were all very close.

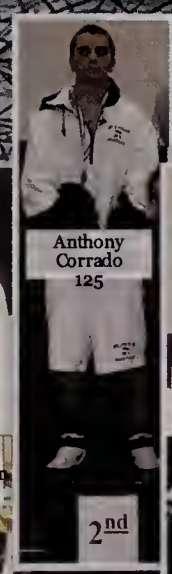
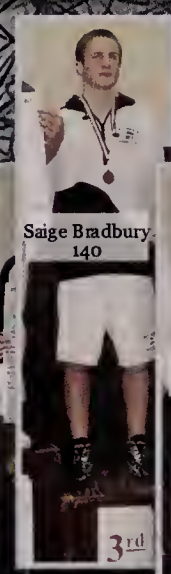
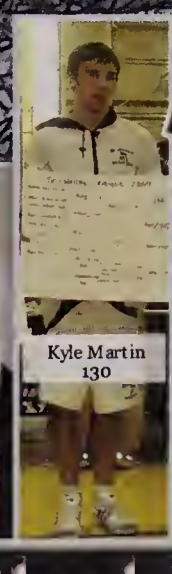
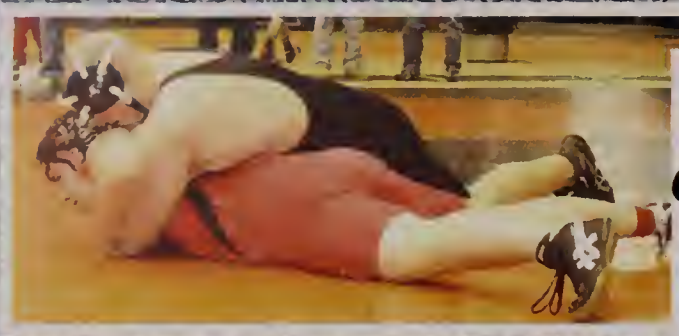
2008-2009 HAWK







Blackhawks



The '08-'09 Blackhawk's Wrestling team had a very successful season this year under the coaching of Mr. Parziale. As a team they went 6-16, but this record alone doesn't justify the success as well as the individual awards and accomplishments did. During the course of the season the team was in three different tournaments. These included the Northbridge Invitational tourney which yielded 2 awards, the Marlborough Early Bird Tourney with 3 awards, and the Framingham Holiday tourney which yielded a 5th place win for Kamali Webson.

The post season was even more prosperous. This started with a first place win in the 130 lbs. weight class by Kyle Martin. The next big tournament was the Division III Central Sectional's where the team had five wrestlers place at least top six in their respective weight classes. Cullen Martel came in 6th, Anthony Felice finished in 5th, Kamren and Kyle Martin placed 4th, and Kamali Webson sailed through undefeated to receive 1st place and the "Outstanding Wrestler Award". At the DIII State Tournament in Taconic, Kamali came in 6th overall and moved on to the second day of the All-State Tournament in Salem.

This was one of the greatest wrestling seasons in Bellingham history and will never be forgotten. Its three graduating seniors Kyle, Anthony, and Kamali will greatly be missed.

16 Top Awards

- Sr. Kamali Webson- 6 awards at 171 weight class
- Sr. Kyle Martin- 4 awards at 130 weight class
- Sr. Anthony Corrado- 2 awards 125 weight class
- Jr. Anthony Felice- 1 award 145 weight class
- Sophomore Saige Bradbury- 1 award 140 weight class
- Sophomore Cullen Martel- 1 award 119 weight class
- Freshman Kamren Martin- 1 award 103 weight class

Class History

Freshman year meant a new beginning, including a fresh start. It meant starting a new chapter in our lives, which would always remain in our hearts. We all gathered to meet our new class advisors, where Mrs. Gemme and Mrs. Beck soon proved to be survivors. Patty Scanlan was our president, and vice president Sean Lunny. Ali Zaidi became our treasurer; he was always funny. Courtney Parker became the secretary for our first year, because we all knew she had no fear. Homecoming approached as our first high school dance, with our upper-class crushes, we all thought 'this was our chance!' Through spirit week, we prepared for the dance; with our theme of the Hawks we all believed we had a good chance. Our sports team that year proved to have no fear. Varsity Field Hockey, Varsity Baseball, as well as Varsity Boys Basketball came out on top. They won the TVL Champion, in which they all proved to earn their spot. Who could forget the 1,000-point shot from Laura Kent? We were all amazed, those who went. At their competition the cheerleaders earned second place, in which you could see the excitement in their face. As freshman year came to an end, we headed to Six Flags with all the rollercoaster's that bend.

Sophomore year had changed a bit, and high school was beginning to fit. The class officers changed a little within time, and our class fundraisers began to rise with dimes. Patty Scanlan remained president, as Courtney Parker moved to vice, in which everyone thought it turned out nice. Samantha Zardeskas took secretary, and Chloe Garrage moved to treasurer, where she became our superb money measurer. The advisors remained the same, and many thought our spirit week theme was lame. Spice Girls rocked the posters on the wall, and homecoming approached again in the fall. Soon ring dance came in a flash, but it felt like a second and it past. Malina Howard as Queen, and Chris Hadges as King, had received there crowns each wearing their new ring. Courtney Parker, Melissa Bradley, Kasey Armstrong, and Jenifer Ferrero became the princesses of the court. While Brian Watson, Chris Tognacci, Sean Lunny and Trevor McGlynn as princes were all dressed different in some sort. Varsity Baseball again came out on top, they earned again the TVL Champion spot. We all soon prepared as our sophomore year came to end, and we ventured into a junior year trend.

Junior year officers and advisors remained the same, and sports that year showed school fame. Varsity Football finished nine and two, while making their Thanksgiving game a perfect record to something new. Varsity Field Hockey had another great season, outscoring their opponents 38-27, which would be their reason. Varsity Boys Basketball finished twelve to ten, as softball gained their best record of seventeen to three. Homecoming and spirit week approached real fast, and our theme of M&M's didn't finish in dead last. The mock trial went 3-0 in the preliminary round, as the band received a silver medal at the MICCA Band Festival, for their great sound. Our SADD club won for the Nation, Activity of the Year, in which they kicked the program right into gear. Earning another award of Life Saver for the state, SADD showed the consequences of destructive decisions to each classmate. With junior prom as 'A Night on Town,' each member of the court showed no frown. King Ali Zaidi and Queen Kelsey Charron sure looked nice. Princes Kamali Webson, Cameron Thibault, and Adam Taylor were cool as ice. Therefore, princesses Meghan Driscoll, Brianna Paturzo, and Brooke Moore, all smiled as they walked out the door. On came the fun, because junior year was finally done.

Senior year came in the blink of an eye, which made many want to cry. The class officers remained the same, while the advisors had a slight bit of change. It was now Mrs. Beck, as well as Mr. Beck, who slowly got us out of a wreck. Senior year events were happening left and right, where many thought this year was already alright. Homecoming approached in the fall, and many seniors were recognized throughout the hall. Winning Queen was Brooke Moore, as King was Cameron Thibault, whom was carried out the door. Princesses Brittany Viveiros Leeanna Arcand, Samantha Zardeskas, and Becky Ficco, all shined as they received their flowers, while the princes seemed to take hours. Patrick Maloney, Brett Lindeman, Spencer Wyant, and Adam Taylor earned their spot. Powder-puff had approached next, and the seniors took a shot. Winning powder-puff, and spirit week, the seniors were on a streak. With many seniors participating in the National Honors Society Prom Fashion Show, many also participated in the Talent Show, which kept the senior flow. Sports this year weren't really the best, but to others, some were on a quest. Varsity Field Hockey moved to the State's Semi-Finals round, while Varsity Softball proved their best record on school grounds. During the winter, Erica Iosue made record time in several events for track, including the 2 mile, 1000, and 1 mile runs. Whereas Rachel Carnaroli also received a record time for the 600, which must have been fun! Again in the spring, and also cross country, Erica concluded a new record, which received many applauds. Senior year happened too fast, in which it's slowly in the past. Skip day at the Town Common to the tug o'war at High Meadows, as well as the Disney Class Trip, many thought those were real hip. Slowly coming to an end, we prepared for our last prom at Lombardo's which was the common senior trend. King Jimmy Abbott and Queen Kelsey Charron both smiled as they were crowned, and princesses Kelsey Peddle, Meghan Driscoll, Kaitlyn Arcand, and Melissa Cripps never frowned. Kyle Stroum, Kamali Webson, Nick Eagan, and Mike Cowell were each recognized as a prince. Graduation slowly approached and time was running out, operation graduation was a blast, without a doubt! Valedictorian Brian Watson, and Salutatorian Spencer Wyant outshined as they spoke graduation day, and many will remember all that came our way. From the senior banquet of air guitar, to the mock accident which left much in shock, our next step in life as at our doors. Who's ready to knock?

Mrs. and Mr. Beck

Thank you for taking care of us as our high school years came to an end. We appreciate all the time and extra efforts you put in to make everything that much more special for us. You'll be a tough act to follow.

Love,

Senior Class Song

Carrie Underwood
"Don't Forget To Remember Me"

18 years have come and gone
For momma they flew by
But for me they drug on and on
We were loading up that Chevy
Both tryin' not to cry
Momma kept on talking
Putting off good-bye
Then she took my hand and said
'Baby don't forget

Before you hit the highway
You better stop for gas
There's a 50 in the ashtray
In case you run short on cash
Here's a map and here's a Bible
If you ever lose your way

Just one more thing before you leave
Don't forget to remember me'

This downtown apartment sure makes me miss home
And those bills there on the counter
Keep telling me I'm on my own
And just like every Sunday I called momma up last night
And even when it's not, I tell her everything's alright
Before we hung up I said
'Hey momma, don't forget to tell my baby sister I'll see her in the fall
And tell mee-ma that I miss her
Yeah, I should give her a call
And make sure you tell Daddy that I'm still his little girl
Yeah, I still feel like I'm where I'm supposed to be
Don't forget to remember me'

Tonight I find myself kneeling by the bed to pray
I haven't done this in a while
So I don't know what to say but
'Lord I feel so small sometimes in this big ol' place
Yeah, I know there are more important things,
But don't forget to remember me
But don't forget to remember me'

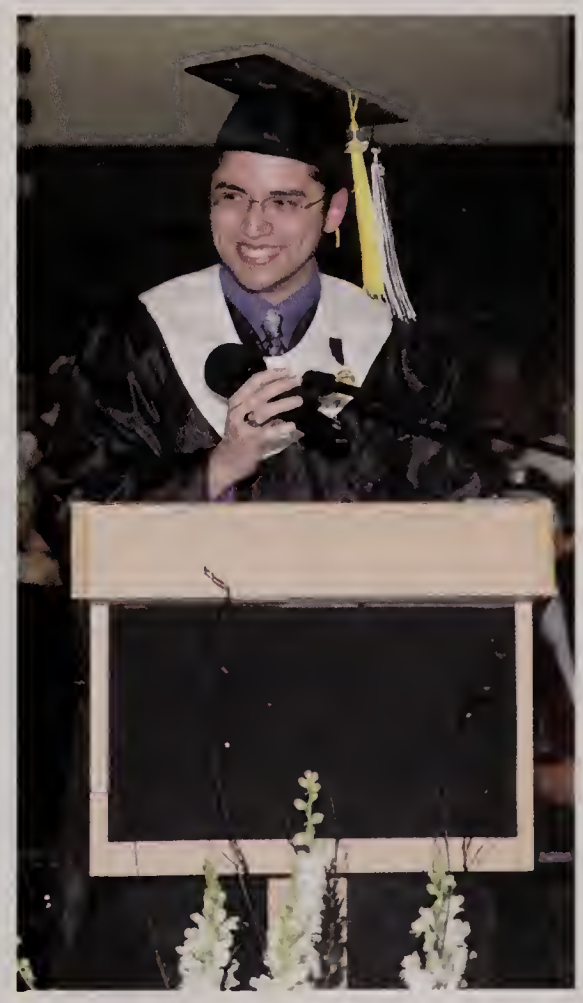
Valedictorian Speech 2009

First and foremost, I would like to say hello again to everyone who is in attendance tonight, and thank you all for your support during our academic careers. As I look out upon the audience, it is clear that quite a lot of people have shown up for this momentous occasion. While I really do appreciate everyone in the audience, I can't help it but to say that all the faces surrounding my podium are making me more than slightly nervous. I actually took a public speaking course back in 9th grade, and although that helped me to improve my skills, I nonetheless get nervous before every speech that I give. For instance, back during the NHS induction in October of last year, I actually made the mistake of referring to our wonderful advisor, Madame Kaplan, as Mr. Kaplan, which, although slightly embarrassing, proved to be of immense humor. So I invite you to take a deep breath along with me. It was my nervousness that actually kept me from planning the majority of this speech until Wednesday night, after the awards ceremony took place. Until then I can honestly say that the realization of this moment marking the completion of my high school career had not fully taken effect. When I went in to the school yesterday to visit both teachers and friends, I was given a visitor's badge- an incredibly surreal experience, as I was stuck in limbo between my past and my future.

Looking back on my four years at Bellingham High School, it's curious as to how many memories we have made. But even more curious is to think of how many memories we will actually remember later down the road. For instance, will we remember our first day of freshmen year in high school? I know I certainly don't, not even now when I try to think about it. What about the multiple proms and homecomings that we went to? I suppose that would depend on what exactly happened both during, as well as after. What about the party at 251, all that holy havoc, and the Stanky Legg? Actually, I'd give a HELL YES to this one. The memories that we will keep with us past high school will undoubtedly be our choice and ours alone- those memories that have shaped us into whom we truly are will most likely stay with us as long as we make a conscious effort to retain them. I for one hope to remember some stories from my high school career, so that when I'm older I can have the story-telling abilities of Mr. Fleury (from whom we've all heard countless stories). And as we leave high school today to face our next challenge, I most certainly hope that we can stay in touch with one another. All too often, as I'm sure we have heard, many high school friendships deteriorate within a year of graduation. I like to remain optimistic and believe that we have not only made lasting friendships, but also that there are still many more friends to be made. Making and maintaining friendships is an ongoing process throughout life that should never end- it may truly be one of the most important factors to living a happy life.

Just last weekend, I was talking to my dad when the subject of college was brought up- as I recall, I think he had been trying to motivate me into starting my nonexistent speech, even though I did my best to assure him that I really wasn't procrastinating, and that I could probably plan my speech the night before if need be. As we went into a detailed discussion of my future college life, I began voicing some fears, such as how I could possibly live on my own when I had lived in a sheltered home for over 18 years. Sensing my apprehension, he took the time to tell me a short story. He said that when I was entering the 1st grade, I remarked how scared I was that everyone but me would be able to do perfect addition/subtraction (having taken calculus this year I more certainly wish those were the biggest of my worries), read perfectly (I was still trying to follow those books on tape), and write superbly as well. And imagine all this as a first grader! And every single time I would voice this fear, he would always tell me the same 5 words: "That's what school is for."

Each year throughout high school as my personal and educational expectations have increased, I have experienced that repeating sense of discomfort: How would I possibly be able to keep up with school (or with my friend and competitor, Spencer Wyant, for that matter)? And nonetheless, those 5 words of wisdom proved to be correct- school has continuously prepared me, as I am sure it has also prepared you, for the challenges to come. Elementary school helped prepare us for middle school, middle school for high school, and undoubtedly high school has prepared us for college, or anything else we choose to do. High school has given us the knowledge and wisdom necessary to pursue our next challenge but also, more importantly, the people skills that will unquestionably help us in later life and ultimately define who we are. I'm sure that every one of us had to deal with that difficult teacher or fellow student who either had different beliefs, or was simply someone who we could not get along with. Nonetheless, the ability to deal with different types of people is probably one of the greatest things that high school could have hoped to teach us- for when we enter the real world, past this shelter that we've been at for the last 4 years or so, we're going to find that at best, our high school was a mere microcosm of how things really are. We are going to learn that we are greatest when we appreciate our differences. Why is there conflict, ranging from the bully tormenting the innocent student, to wars that decimate many lives and put the world in chaos? Simply put, it is because people fail to get along with one another. The ability to truly tolerate and respect people is an acquired skill that makes us great. For in the end, one can only hope to work hard, be kind, make friends, and avoid unnecessary conflict. I ask that all of you to strive to appreciate your differences and to have the patience and wisdom to coexist with each other. It is a challenge we must face every day and it will never be easy. By doing so, one can thereby hope to live a long, rewarding and prosperous life.



I'd just like to say that I hope I didn't frighten anyone, for I didn't mean to be overly serious at such a joyful occasion as this. We've gone through 4 years of high school, and it is now time to fully enjoy ourselves. I wish the senior class of 2009 the best with whatever they may choose to do (as I most certainly hope we can all stay in touch), and look forward to playing rock band at OP GRAD later tonight.

Thank you.

Salutatorian Speech 2009

Welcome and congratulations class of 2009. Today marks the culmination of your high school career as well as a major turning point in our lives. A lot of people make a big deal out of today, and for good reason. This is the end of both high school and a major part of our lives. Yet for those of us who are actually graduating, it's hard to fully appreciate its significance. We all know it's an important day, but in many ways it can feel as though it's just one last thing we need to do to get through high school. At the very least, I can't imagine that many of you are having the time of your life just listening to these speeches, and I don't blame you.

When I first started writing this speech, I had intended to make a pretty traditional one about how the significance of today would become clearer with time. While I'm sure it would have been decent, it was definitely going to be boring. Most of you would remember almost nothing from the speech, and those of you that did probably wouldn't have taken much from it. In fact, most speeches really aren't remembered, and to give a truly memorable speech, you have to be either a fantastic writer or a very insightful person; in this situation, I am neither.

Of course, I'm not trying to demean any of the other speakers this afternoon, who are all more than capable of leaving a memorable impact on all of you. Nor am I trying to degrade today's graduation; it really is an important event that I hope you all enjoy and remember. I'm simply explaining why I abandoned my original attempt at a speech, one that would not have been unlike many given before in previous graduations. I was trying to be practical and I found it kind of pointless to write an entire speech that, at the end of the day wasn't going to have much of an impact. Nevertheless, talking about how pathetic my original speech was going to be isn't much of an improvement from actually giving it. And well, I'm not really the best storyteller and my type of humor really doesn't fit in here so instead I've decided to share with you just a few simple thoughts I've had while thinking about graduation. They are all a little clichéd, but let's face it, many things are clichéd simply because they're so true.

First off, what's most important about a turning point is not the event itself, which merely serves as a marker for our progress, but the past that precedes it and the future that develops from it. The past is the past; it is unchangeable. Dwelling on it, regretting things you did or did not do, ultimately does nothing to move your life forward. That isn't to say the past should be forgotten, being that everything that happen to us in the past has made us who we are today, and often in ways we didn't expect. I doubt anyone of us could have accurately predicted at the beginning of high school what we would be like when we were leaving it. And for the record, we're definitely a better class now than four years ago. We've all had a lot of great and happy moments over these past years, memories we will enjoy looking back on later in our lives. Unfortunately, we've also been a class that has seen more than its fair share of misfortune; but we've persevered, and we're all here today with, I believe, a pretty deep appreciation for our lives.

Now, on the opposite end, the future is a formidable prospect, an unpredictable unknown that is, in many ways, ours to create. A great thing about graduating is that you have more freedom over your life now than ever before. And truly, it is your life, do want you want with it. Obviously I can't stand up here and suggest that you do anything violent or harmful or that you act so irresponsibly that you endanger yourself. But you should have fun with your life, you should take chances, and you shouldn't pass up the opportunities that are presented to you. Meet as many people and go to as many places as you can. This is probably your only chance on life, so why not make it as interesting as possible. At the same time, making a few positive contributions to the world isn't a bad thing to do either.

Well, after saying all that, my speech sounds pretty traditional anyways. Oh well. At least this way it was a lot easier to write. And if you don't want to, you don't have to apply anything I just said to your life; they're just my opinions. But at the very least, enjoy the rest of your graduation, and for that matter, enjoy the rest of your life. Good luck and goodbye. Thank you.

The Epilogue

Julia Goldstein
Editor

Ashley Moquin
Editor

As the editors of "The Epilogue", we have attempted to construct a book that is an accurate reflection of the Class of 2009. The photographs have been laid out, the captions have been written, and this yearbook is the final product. Although it may be impossible to capture the essence of the student body of our class within this book, we have made every effort to do so. We have aspired to capture your individual spirit and the collective spirit of our class. It is our wish that you, upon first viewing this book, will agree. Years from now, as our recollections of these four years at Bellingham High begin to fade, we hope that upon viewing this yearbook, memories will be rekindled and refreshed so as to bring you back, at least momentarily, to this period of our lives.

Thank you to Mr. Bob DiCaprio and Dawn Morin for taking the great majority of the photographs within this book.

The Class of 2009 dedicates this yearbook to Melissa Newman. Without your patience, guidance, and counsel, this yearbook would not have been possible.

Thank you,

Julia Goldstein

Earthquake Devastates China's Sichuan Province

A man reacts while taking a break from searching through the rubble in Hanwang in southwest China's Sichuan Province. An earthquake registering 8.0 on the Richter Scale devastated the region on May 12, 2008. The region suffered thousands of aftershocks in the days that followed—the strongest of which hit 6.4 on the Richter Scale.

Texas Gulf Coast Cleans Up After Hurricane Ike

In this aerial photo, damage after the passing of Hurricane Ike is seen September 13, 2008 in Houston, Texas. Ike caused extensive damage along the Texas Gold Coast, leaving millions without power.

World Series: Philadelphia Phillies Take Tampa Bay Rays in Game 5

Greg Dobbs #19 of the Philadelphia Phillies celebrates with the World Series Championship trophy after their 4-3 win against the Tampa Bay Rays during the continuation of game five of the 2008 MLB World Series on October 29, 2008 at Citizens Bank Park in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Game 5 was the first suspended game in World Series history, concluding two days after it began.

Fireworks explode next to the National Stadium, also known as the "Bird's Nest," during the opening ceremony of the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games on August 8, 2008. A thundering display of fireworks exploded over the "Bird's Nest" stadium in the shape of a blossoming red flower as China put the full glory of its rich history on display at the Olympic opening ceremony. Some 91,000 people, many waving Chinese flags, packed into the National Stadium on a hot and humid night for a spectacular show masterminded by Oscar-nominated filmmaker Zhang Yimou.

Olympic Gold for the United States

Shawn Johnson and Nastia Liukin of the United States pose together with their medals from the Women's all around Gymnastics event. The Iowa-native, Shawn Johnson, received her Olympic Gold for her balance beam routine full of difficult tricks, earning a 16.225. Liukin, daughter of a two-time Olympic champion, won the women's all around to receive the Olympic gold medal.

An American Dream

Henry Cejudo, the son of Mexican immigrants, became the first American to win a gold medal in freestyle wrestling in 16 years when he beat Japan's Tomohiro Matsunaga to win the 121 pound freestyle Gold Medal Match. A joyful Dejudo broke down into tears on the mat, then took a victory lap carrying the American flag. "This is the American dream," said a joyful Cejudo, still wrapped in the U.S. flag. "The United States is the greatest country in the world."

Sarah Palin Makes History

Republican U.S. presidential nominee U.S. Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) surprised the political world by naming Sarah Palin, a little-known governor of Alaska and self-described "hockey mom," as his running mate on the Republican presidential ticket. Palin is the first female chosen for the position within the Republican Party.
